

High enough

You don't knew were you're going
You don't knew were you're been
The riders out of fortune put a mark up on your chin

They left you here to mourn
They left you here to die
Said if you don't get yourself together we'd curse you with a sigh
One sight out of that raven
One sight out of that moose
Talking with each other reflecting on the truth

Did you get high enough
Did you get riddles from that three
Did you get high enough
Do you need to follow me

They told you were to search
They told you how to lie
They show you all this secrets while learning how to fly

You left your house in ruins
You're lover and you're life Pretending there was wisdom inside that butchers knife
You'd reach for that oblivion
Until your mind was gone
Found your reflecting staring at the sun

Did you get high enough
Did you get blisters on your skin
Did you get high enough
To reflect up on you're sin
Did you get high enough
Did you get riddles from the sky
Did you get high enough
Do you need to wonder why

Did you get high enough
Did you get high enough
Did you get high enough