

Note: Half of the tune is from a poem I once read in a book
Now I can't remember in which book or who wrote it
The refrain I'll made up one of this rainy days

The lost word

If the lost word was lost unheard unspoken
Will that word resound is there enough of silence
Could that word be reloaded to cover you with my love
Will you hear me calling Will you hear me calling

Oh my world what have I done, to deserve this
Deserve this everlasting rain

So if my heart was lost unheard unspoken
If I'll lose my heart to you if I'll, lose my mind
Would you whisper through the rain through that mist of silence
Will you hear me calling Will you hear me calling

Oh my world what have I done, to deserve this
Deserve this everlasting rain

So if my soul was lost unheard unspoken
So if my soul was lost in that rain of silence
If I was trembling in fear If I was screaming in anger
Until that one word was left unheard unspoken
Will that word resound Will you hear me calling
Will you hear me calling Will you hear me calling
Will you hear me calling Will you hear me calling

Oh my world what have I done, to deserve this
Deserve this everlasting rain